

A Child's Guide to Prayer

Love this devotion today from Max Lucado. I am so glad the Holy Spirit speaks for me as sometimes I know not how to ask for his will BUT I know he knows & hears my heart.

A recent prayer I heard was from a legendary baseball player was the following he didn't have big words or a long prayer but it has stuck with me. Today I come to him with that prayer in a childlike manner:

"YOUR WILL
NOTHING MORE
NOTHING LESS
NOTHING ELSE

The impoverished orphan of Russia, the distraught widow of the battlefield, the aging saint in the convalescent home. They may think they have no voice, no clout, no influence, but they have a friend. They have a counselor, a comforter—the blessed Spirit of God, who speaks the language of heaven in heaven.

None of us pray as much as we should, but all of us pray more than we think because the Holy Spirit turns our sighs into petitions and tears into entreaties. He speaks for you and he protects you. And he makes sure you are heard, he makes sure you get home.
